afternoon in the school house which served as the church.

At 2 o'clock we had dinner and then sauntered out with lighted cigars to the place of worship. It was in January, the grass was green, the birds warbled their musical cadences, and the day was lovely with the spring sunshine. Our cigars being smoked, we wandered across the public square and saw the people congregated in the old fashioned Southern school-house. We entered and walked up the broad aisle, on either side lined with desks with their ink-stained marks of childish fingers, took our scals near the platform raised about one foot from the floor. Mr. Woodyard, my merchant friend, took a hymnbook and called out the number of the Teas! Teas! Teas!

About this time, a tall man in butter nut clothes and a blue flannel shirt, with his hair "squigetty," came up the aisle and made for the platform. Mr. Woodyard tapped me on the shin saying: "That's our minister."

The good man tossed his sombrero hat on the floor, stood to one side of the desk and opened his sermon.

MATTER WORTH READING A Chinese native paper published re-

A Chinese native paper published re-cently a collection of some zoological myths of that country, a few of which are worth noting. In Shan-si there is a bird which can divest itself of its feath-ers and become a woman. At Twan-sin-chow dwells the Wan-mu Niao (mother of mosquitoes), a fish-cating bird, from whose mouth issue swarms of measurements, when it cries, Yungof mosquitoes when it cries, Yung-chow has its stone-swallow, which files during wind and rain, and in fine weather turns to stone again. Another bird when killed gives much oil to the hunter, and when the skin is thrown into the water it becomes a living bird again. With regard to animals, few are so useful as the "Jih-kih" ox, found in Kansuh, from which large pieces of flesh are cut for meat and grow again in a single day. The merman of the Southare cut for meat and grow again in a single day. The merman of the Southerta seas can weave a kind of silky fabric which keeps a house cool in summer if hung up in one of the rooms. The lears of this merman are pearls. A large hermit-crab is attended by a little shrimp which lives in the stomach of its master; if the shrimp is successful in its depredations the crab flourishes, but the latter dies if the shrimp does not return from its daily excursions. The 'Ho-to' is a fish having one head and len bodies. The myths about snakes are the strangest of all. Thus the square snake of Kwangsi has the power of throwing an inky fluid when attacked, which kills its assailants at once. Another snake can divide itself up into twelve pieces, and each piece, if touched by a man, will instantly generate a head and fangs at each end. The calling snake asks the traveler: "Where are you from, and whither are you bound?" If he answers, the snake follows him for miles, and, entering the hotel where he is sleeping, raises a fearful stench. The hotel proprietor, however, guards against this by putting a centipede in a box under the pillow, and when the snake gives forth the evil odor the centipede is let out, and, flying at the snake, instantly kills him with a bite. The fat of this snake, and, flying at the snake, instantly kills him with a bite. The fat of this snake, which grows to a great size, makes oil for the lamps, and produces a flame which cannot be blown out. In Burma and Cochin-China is a snake which has male is green in color, and has a long beard; it will kill a tiger, but a fox is more than a match for it. An Ugly Woman Who Was Loved. The smart jacket is of white cloth, braided with gold and having a royal purple velvet collar and cuffs. It is wonderfully swell, but, oddly enough, just such a jacket was worn and approved of by the Princess de Metternich in the days of the Second Empire. What a wonderful woman she was! With no beauty, but with a wonderful amount of wit, she managed to dress so that men approved of and were at tracted by her tollettes always, and to the women she was a continual study She could rule an empire of diplomats by her wit and an empire of women by her tact. She knew the value of little things, and seldom made mistakes. She could understand how a politician in disfavor to-day might be monarch of all he surveyed to morrow, and partly through kindness, partly through policy she was ready to give a helping hand to the one in disgrace. At once the wit-tiest and ugliest woman of her time, she was more passionately loved than her more beautiful and less audacious sisters.—[N. Y. Graphic.

CALIFORNIA WINES

INGLENOOK VINEYARD.

Napa County, California. The Inglenook Wines are offered to the public in GLASS ONLY, being bottled at the Vineyard in California protected by its trade-mark, and the Pure Wine Stamp of the State, which guarantees the absolute purity of the wines; every bottle is WIRED, bearing the Seal of the proprietor of the vineyard.

Only Agent for the District of Columbia.

Are Superior to Any in the Market.

1. Because they are made from the highest types of European grapes translanted to the most fruitful valley in California.

2. Because of the many varieties-each is from the best-known grape for that particular wine-and consequently they are uniform in character from year to year; a very important fact with druggists and consumers.

3. Because they are made in the most careful manner and by the most approved methods. 4. Because they are full strength, pure juice wines, produced from the grape by natural processes only. They are entire-no water, no artificial color ing matter, no sugar, no crude alcohol.

5. Because they are never offered to the public until they are mature and fit

6. Because from the best vineyard in California, producing 500,000 gallons yearly. Only the oldest and finest wines come to this market, and every bottle sold carries on its label the name of the vineyard. 7. Because we have ample vaults in this city, twenty feet under ground, USE CERES, ING.

the care and handling of wines is as important as the making.

8. Pecause we have no irresponsible agents, and hold ourselves responsible for the quality and perfect condition of every bottle sold.

9. Because we can ship our wine to any State east of the Mississippi river, in lots of four or more cases, with safety to the purchaser and for less money than a like wine can be purchased elsewhere.

10. Because we are here on a permanent basis, and will refund purchasemoney on any wine which proves unsatisfactory.

11. Because we carry a large stock and can duplicate orders to any extent.

12. Because Mr. H. W. Crabb, the owner of the To-Kalon vineyard, after an exhaustive study of European vineyards and all the intricate processes of winemaking, has given twenty years of his life to the great industry of American wine production, and now deservedly stands at the head with a reputation too valuable to jeopardize.

13. Because the average American wines are from inferior grapes-often carclessly made, often doctored to create an artificial flavor, and put on the market too young, after an enforced clarification.

14. Because nine-tenths of the so-called imported wines are spurious, or extended with water and poor alcohol, flavored and colored to "suit the market."

DRUGGISTS SHOULD BUY FROM US.

15. Because adulteration and falsification of wines and brandles is the rule and not the exception; while we guarantee our goods to be entirely free from any foreign substances and invite the closest analysis.

The public generally should buy To-Kalon Wines, as we have put large capital into the business, have an immense stock always on hand, and are here to do a legitimate business for a legitimate profit.
